

Abstract : Chemical modification is an effective approach to improve piezoelectric thermal stability of the cellular PP by changing its chemical compositions, which improved the charge storage stability